31st Annual

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

HELD AT

MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM
KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI

OCTOBER 13-16, 1958

Prepared and Published by the Future Farmers of America in cooperation with the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

THE NATIONAL FFA BAND AND CHORUS

The first National FFA Band, under the direction of Dr. Henry S. Brunner was organized in 1947. A year later, the National FFA Chorus, under the direction of Dr. James W. Hatch was organized. Often called the "mail order" band and chorus, because the members are selected through correspondence, they represent approximately forty States. These musicians are always a hit and contribute much to the success and enjoyment of each national convention.

INTRODUCTION

The Future Farmers of America is the national organization of boys studying vocational agriculture in public secondary schools under the provisions of the National Vocational Education Acts. Launched at Kansas City in November 1928, the organization has continued to develop rapidly. On June 30, 1958, the active membership totaled 377,922 in 8,993 chapters of 48 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

The primary aim of the Future Farmers of America organization is the development of agricultural leadership, cooperation, citizenship and patriotism. Other purposes include: strengthening the confidence of farm boys and young men in themselves and their work; more intelligent choice of farming occupations; creating and nurturing a love of country life; improving the rural home and its surroundings; encouraging cooperative effort; encouraging thrift; improving scholarship; providing organized recreational activities for rural people; and supplementing, by means of boy-initiated and boy-directed activities, the systematic instruction offered to prospective young farmers regularly enrolled in day-school vocational agriculture courses.

The Future Farmers of America organization of voluntary membership has taken its place with other agencies interested in the upbuilding of agriculture and the improvement of country life. National Headquarters of the Future Farmers of America is located in the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Washington 25, D. C. National conventions are held annually at Kansas City, Missouri.

The Thirty-First National Convention was held at the Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City, Missouri, October 13-16, 1958. Delegates from fifty State associations, and approximately 12,000 individuals attended the convention. "The FFA at 30" was featured with special emphasis on how the FFA program is helping farm boys better prepare themselves for citizenship and life on the farm.

These proceedings constitute a yearbook on organization activities. The complete minutes of the Convention sessions are included, along with certain other important material which is supplementary to or explanatory to the convention activities. Press releases, as well as certain newspaper accounts, were used in compiling parts of this publication. Thanks are due to Mr. John J. Farrar, Director of Public Relations and Information for the FFA, Mrs. Irene W. Shafer, Miss Veronica Horan and Miss Virginia Nicholson for their assistance in the preparation of material for this publication.

Minutes of the Convention

Monday, October 13, 1958

Evening Session

The Future Farmers of America thirty-first national convention convened in the Main Arena of the Municipal Auditorium, Kansas, City, Missouri, at seven forty-five. National President Howard Downing of Nicholasville, Kentucky, presiding. National Vice Presidents Royce Bodiford, Jerry Cullison, Jerry Rulon and Leon Smith, were present, as well as Student Secretary Nathan Reese, Advisor W. T. Spanton, Executive Secretary Wm. Paul Gray, and Treasurer R. E. Bass.

Following the opening ceremony the National FFA Band presented a concert.

An explanation of the National FFA Public Speaking Contest was given by President Downing. The speakers then drew for speaking order. Following the speeches the National FFA Chorus presented several selections while the judges conferred. Results of the contest were announced and awards presented on behalf of the Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc. by Royce Bodiford.

The meeting adjourned with the closing ceremony.

Tuesday, October 14, 1958

Morning Session

After a few numbers by the National FFA Chorus, Mr. Wilson W. Carnes, Editor of The National FUTURE FARMER Magazine, gave a report on the magazine and official calendar. Watson of Arkansas moved to accept the report; motion seconded by Uhler of Nebraska and carried.

The meeting recessed at eleven fifty-five o'clock.

Tuesday, October 14, 1958Afternoon Session

The second session of the convention was called to order at two o'clock, President Downing presiding.

Several musical selections were rendered by the national chorus.

Student Secretary Nathan Reese presented his report. Manary of Oregon moved to accept the report; motion seconded by Watkins of Oklahoma and carried.

Student Secretary Reese read a proposed amendment to the National FFA Constitution, submitted by the Maryland Association. This would amend Article IV, Section B, "Active Membership," by deleting the phrase "upon receiving a majority vote of the chapter membership at any local chapter meeting." Fulmer of Arkansas moved to accept this amendment; motion seconded by Mercier of Massachusetts and carried.

Two other proposed amendments to the National FFA Constitution, which were submitted by the Maryland Association were read. One would amend Article V, Section B, "Green Hand Degree," by deleting paragraph 4; the other would amend Article V, Section C, "Chapter Farmer Degree," by deleting paragraph 8. Both of these amendments were rejected.

A proposed amendment to the Constitution submitted by the Virginia Association was then read. This would amend Section A of Article II, "Organization," by changing the last sentence in that paragraph to read as follows: "It shall consist of chartered State Associations which, in turn, are composed of not less than four local chapters chartered by a State Association and having a total active membership of not less than 125". Hill of California moved to accept the proposed amendment; motion seconded by Justice of Oregon. Dubroff of Florida moved to amend this amendment by adding the words, "No organized State Association may have its charter revoked if it drops below 125 members and four chapters"; motion seconded by Stone of Georgia. The proposed amendment as amended was carried.

The Honorary American Farmer Degree was conferred upon business and industry leaders.

North Atlantic Regional Vice President Leon Smith presented his report. Caulk of Delaware moved to accept the report; motion seconded by Warner of New York and carried.

President Downing introduced Mr. Ivan Kindschi, National FFA President in 1939-40, after which Mr. Kindschi presented an address.

The American Farmer Degree was conferred upon the following candidates by the national officers:

Report of the Committee on the National Chapter Award Program

We, the committee of the National Chapter Award Program, having given careful thought, and surveying the application form, and taken into consideration last year's committee report, feel that there is no change necessary at this time, since a change would tend to decrease chapter participation. Because of this, we recommend that this program be continued.

Report of the National Convention Committee

We, the members of the committee on the national convention discussed and propose the following recommendations:

1. Each State association be requested to supply at least one, and if possible two alternate delegates to be available at all convention sessions.

2. Recognizing the work done by the National Board of Student Officers and National Board of Directors, and would like to request that the responsibility of preventing amateur photographers from interfering with the convention program be left up to the ushers.

3. The United States Flag and the Official FFA Flag be displayed on the stage at all times during the convention.

4. The delegates adhere to the official ceremony in regard to the rule of rising to the taps of the gavel (i.e., rise together after the third tap of gavel—not before).

5. Maintain the effectiveness of the Star Farmer Ceremony by having the regional vice presidents escort the regional star farmers to their places.

6. No pictures be taken of contestants at the national public speaking contest while they are speaking.

7. Maintain a well posted bulletin board for the use of all delegates pertaining to the activities and meetings of the convention.

8. All members in attendance be asked to dress and act appropriately when attending the convention (i.e., wear the jacket correctly and act like gentlemen at all times and places).

9. Encourage all members to take educational tours.

10. Review the possibility of obtaining a more reasonable price for the tickets to the delegate luncheon.

11. Propose that there be a special educational tour exclusively for state delegates.

Report of the Committee on the Dedication of FFA Building

We, the Building Dedication Committee, wish to make the following recommendations for the ceremony in which the National FFA Building will be dedicated:

The ceremony be held during the week preceding the July, 1959 meeting of the National Boards of Student Officers and Directors.

A minimum of two and maximum of six Future Farmers, along with two advisors, be present from each State.

Have a service band perform.

Have massing of flags in order of granting of charter to State association. Each flag to be borne by a State President and placed in a holder located on the east side of the circle drive so that the flags form a semi-circle with a break in the circle in front of main entrance of the building.

Have each State present a tree suitable for the building grounds for complete landscaping.

Have brief remarks from the following individuals: Dr. W. T. Spanton; Commissioner of Education Lawrence Derthick; Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Arthur Flemming; Leslie Applegate (first National FFA President); National FFA President.

If feasible a picnic lunch should be held at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Guided tours be held to show the complete facilities of the building.

Report of the Committee on FFA Foundation

On behalf of the entire delegation and national FFA membership, we, the Foundation Committee, wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to the many generous donors to the Future Farmers of America Foundation.

These funds have improved the national organization by creating an incentive for our members to work to attain greater goals and achievements in the Future Farmer organization. We feel that the FFA has contributed greatly to the rural life in America.

We extend our deepest gratitude to Mr. Glen B. Miller, President of Allied Chemical Corporation, for his services as Chairman of the Foundation Sponsoring Committee this year. We also wish to express our appreciation to Mr. Hugo Riemer, former President of the Nitrogen Division of Allied Chemical Corporation, who served as Chairman of the Sponsoring Committee the first part of 1958.

We would like to encourage state associations who are organizing or who have in operation a State foundation to use as a guide the rules, policies and purposes of the national foundation. At State conventions where awards are made from funds of both State and National Foundations, proper recognition should be given to each.

Again, thanks to our donors and may they continue to prosper.

Report of the National FFA Magazine Committee

We, the National Magazine Committee, hereby submit the following recommendations and commendations:

1. Encourage members to send in articles and pictures of national interest, making sure they are correct and prompt.

2. Encourage all States to strive toward 100 per cent participation. Commend the practice of awarding plaques to States achieving this goal and this practice be continued.

3. Encourage each State executive committee to emphasize the importance of 100 per cent subscriptions.

4. All subscriptions be filled out accurately and printed in ink.

5. Encourage members to write letters, giving personal views of magazine and suggestions for any improvements.

6. Recommend to have the National FFA Magazine made available in as many public places as possible.

7. Exchange publications with other youth organizations in other countries.

8. Commend the members of the magazine staff for attending the numerous State conventions and encourage them to continue this practice.

9. Each State association encourage local chapters to contact businessmen in their local community to advertise with the National Future Farmer Calendar.

The committee wishes to thank the national officers for their backing of the magazine. Our thanks go also to Mr. Wilson Carnes and his staff for their untiring efforts.

We wish to commend the staff for their improvements of the magazine in having more and better articles, and a larger circulation.

The Editor, Board of Student Officers and Board of Directors are to be given full authority to make any and all changes deemed necessary and advisable for the betterment of the magazine.

Report of the Official Manual Committee

We the members of the Official Manual Committee, recommend the following revisions:

1. Delete the words "upon receiving a majority vote of the chapter membership at any local chapter meeting," in Article IV, Section B of the National Constitution and Bylaws.

2. Add paragraphs 12 and 13 to "The Proper Use of the Official FFA Jacket," to read as follows:

12. Refrain from wearing the jacket with sleeves rolled up or with a sport shirt hanging below the jacket. Also avoid wearing a jacket that is soiled, faded or ill-fitting.

13. Do not clutter jacket with pins, medals, and letters of the FFA or other organizations. Only three medals to be worn on the jacket, that of the highest office held, highest FFA degree elected to, and highest award.

3. Add under "Legislation and Policies" on page 118, (Public Law 740, 81st Congress) (Chapter 823 — 2nd Session) (S. 2860).

4. Add the word "Incorporated" after "The Future Farmers of America Foundation" on pages 3 and 91.

5. Add under Bibliography, "Leadership Training and Parliamentary Procedure for FFA" by Gray and Jackson.

6. Amend Section A. Article II (Organization) of the National Constitution by changing the last sentence in that paragraph to read as follows: "It shall consist of chartered State Associations which, in turn, are composed of not less than four local chapters chartered by a State Association, and having a total active membership of not less than 125. No organized State Association can have its charter revoked if it falls below the minimum.

Report of the Public Relations Committee

We, the committee on Public Relations for 1957-58, go on record as recommending the following:

1. That we as Future Farmers of America encourage the cooperation and expansion of the Student Exchange Program between the United States and other countries.

2. That local chapters be encouraged to select outstanding members and representatives to speak before farm, business, civic, and youth groups, etc.

3. That the national organization, State Associations, and local chapters make a special effort to observe National FFA Week by the use of newspaper coverage, display aids, advertisement folders, window displays, radio and television, and by speaking to farm, business, civic, and youth groups, etc.

4. That the national organization, State Associations, and local chapters, in order to make known our Future Farmer program, feature the use of radio, television and newspaper articles throughout the year.

5. That the 3rd edition of the pictorial brochure, "Future Farmers of America . . . In Action," be completed by the public relations department before the 1959 national convention.

6. That local chapters and State Associations make a determined effort to see that the National Future Farmer Magazine is subscribed to by all members and is placed in high school, college, and public libraries. We also recommend that the magazine be sent to friends of the Future Farmers of America Organization.

7. That our national officers continue the policy of a Good-Will Tour and that State Associations and local chapters also adopt this policy.

8. That delegates, award winners, guests of luncheons, breakfasts and dinners express their appreciation to the Foundation donors by personal note.

9. That State Associations encourage visits of officers of other State Associations to their conventions.

10. That local chapters and State Associations invite businessmen, teachers, and agricultural leaders, etc., to chapter and State-wide activities.

11. That we as Future Farmers of America encourage better relations with other youth organizations.

12. That we encourage enforcement of rigid disciplinary actions of all our members to improve our relations with the public.

Report of the National Public Speaking Contest Committee

After reviewing the Announcements and Rules of the National Public Speaking Contest carefully, we the members of the 1958 National Public Speaking Contest Committee suggest:

Section II ELIGIBILITY, Paragraph 2 be reworded to read as follows:

"The national contest will be open only to boys less than 21 years of age still enrolled in vocational agriculture or completed all the vocational agriculture offered in the school. Contestants must be active members of chartered FFA chapters in good standing with a State Association and the national organization during the school year of 1958-59. A State winner is eligible to compete only in the next succeeding sub-regional and regional contests. A regional winner is eligible to compete only in the next succeeding national contest. A member representing a State association may participate in a sub-regional, regional or a national contest only once."

Section IV TIME LIMIT, be reworded to read as follows:

"Each speech shall be a minimum of eight minutes in length and a maximum of ten minutes. Five minutes additional time will be allowed each contestant in which to defend his production on questions which shall be asked by the judges. (Each contestant be allowed to completely answer all questions asked by the judges.) Deductions of 20 points per minute or major fraction thereof, will be made for speeches under eight minutes or over ten minutes in length."

Quotations from Addresses Delivered at the Convention

Mayor H. Roe Bartle pays tribute to the FFA and the outstanding leadership of President Howard Downing.

H. ROE BARTLE Mayor of Kansas City, Missouri

"Thirty years ago some eighteen States were represented when a handful of Future Farmers assembled at the Baltimore Hotel . . . these young men from rural America had faith, courage and determination, and believed they had a great program that they wanted those who would follow them to enjoy the fullness and the richness thereof.

" . . . Gear yourself more fully to your educational program, give more vigorously of yourself to the Future Farmer program, not only at the chapter but at the State level and at the national level. As you assume your majority and reach age twenty-one, then become truly a participating citizen of the greatest nation God has ever blessed, and make it greater, not only for yourselves but for generations unborn. That is your job, Mr. Future Farmer."

Ivan Kindschi, National FFA President, 1939-40, addressed the candidates for the American Farmer Degree. He is now a successful dairy farmer at Marshall, Wisconsin and very active in farm organizations and his support to vocational agriculture.

IVAN KINDSCHI

National FFA President—1939-40

“Those who have received the Honorary American Farmer Degree probably never were out after the degree purposely. You were interested sincerely in the serving and the building of the FFA Organization.

“To you FFA boys it is different when you attain the goal of an American Farmer . . . having the degree bears with it responsibility. The people in your community will judge the value of that degree by what you fellows make of yourselves after having received the degree. You are in a better position to serve society now because of your experience in the FFA . . . and through this organization we are going to go far in fulfilling the need for good agricultural leadership . . . You men have a responsibility to do your part in furnishing agricultural leadership and take your positions of leadership in society by developing a Christian home . . . assume roles of leadership in your communities and your country, your schools, churches, town governments, State Legislatures, Halls of Congress and farm organizations. . .

“ I want to tell you fellows as we go out in our adult life, the most important job we have is to maintain our sense of values. I encourage not only you American Farmer Degree winners, but everybody throughout the FFA, that above and beyond keeping our sense of values, we should do our best to render real service to society and to American agriculture, and then to be sure that we do credit to the organization that put us on our way, the Future Farmers of America.”

EZRA TAFT BENSON
Secretary of Agriculture

EZRA TAFT BENSON
Secretary, U. S. Department of Agriculture

“The future of American farming, the future of America itself depends on young men like you who are in this auditorium this morning. You represent the greatest asset in America. You will found families, furnish food, and provide raw materials for our great industry. Your strength is America's strength. You will be our agricultural leaders. It will be up to you to keep agriculture strong and healthy. . .

"May I say to you that the family farm has been, is now, and in my judgment always will be the backbone of American agriculture. Ninety-six percent of our farms today are family type operations, the same percentage as thirty years ago. True, the family farm is changing because of the increased efficiency of our farmers. Because of mechanization a farmer can handle more acres and needs more acres in order to have an efficient unit today than he did when he was operating with horses. But it is still a family operation, and the family farm in my judgment is more solid today than ever before in our memory. . .

"How fortunate we are to live in this land, choice above all others! How grateful we should be, and how determined to keep our country free and strong."

Sotero Lasap, Jr., representing the Future Farmers of the Philippines, discusses FFA with Adin Hester, Incoming National President.

SOTERO "TERRY" LASAP, JR.

National Officer, Future Farmers of the Philippines

"On behalf of the 10,000 members of the Future Farmers of the Philippines, I wish to extend my warmest greetings to the Scenes From "THE

A AT 30" PAGEANT

Future Farmers of America on the occasion of their Thirty-First National Convention. . .

"Most countries on the other side of the globe, including the Philippines, realize that in time of war and in time of peace the farmer is the backbone of the nation. The strength of any nation is primarily determined upon the strength of her farmers. The farm boys, therefore, should be given an equal opportunity with those boys from the urban areas to group themselves and form their own opinions. My friends, you will agree with me this convention is the realization of that proposition.

"I have enjoyed very much the company of the FFA boys. I always feel confident, safe and happy wherever I go. I certainly have learned a lot from the FFA which the Future Farmers of the Philippines can profit much.

"We certainly believe that if nations could have a better chance of proper guidance for the youth of today who will be the strong leaders of tomorrow to have a common understanding and binding interest among themselves, then our goal for world peace is at hand."

National Student Officer Reports

Report of the National President

At the conclusion of last year's convention, I participated in a leadership training session, presided over the awards banquet and had the pleasure of riding in the American Royal Parade.

After returning home I spoke before service clubs and FFA chapters. I attended the National Farm Bureau Convention in Chicago, and later spoke at a Rotary Club meeting in Illinois.

HOWARD DOWNING
President

In Washington I attended the Board of Student Officers' meeting, participated in leadership training, and met with representatives of the donors to the National FFA Foundation, Inc. We officers visited with Vice President Nixon; Assistant Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Edward Foss Wilson; and Commissioner of Education, Dr. Lawrence G. Derthick. We enjoyed dinners with Wheeler McMillen, Vice President of "Farm Journal," Herschel D. Newsom, Master of the National Grange, and J. Kenneth Stern, President of the American Institute of Cooperation.

We were the weekend guests of Mr. Raymond Firestone, President of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company and appeared on the "Voice of Firestone" Television show.

Concluding our Board meetings in Washington, your national officers began the annual Good-Will Tour, where we visited donors to the FFA Foundation. We discussed FFA with these men, but we also talked about common problems between agriculture and industry—and our interdependence upon each other.

Our first stop was Baltimore when we visited Hynson, Westcott and Dunning Pharmaceutical Laboratories, and toured the Black and Decker Manufacturing Company. The following day we went to Wilmington, Delaware, where we visited the Hercules Powder Company and the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company. Our next meeting was with the Boy Scouts of America at New Brunswick, New Jersey, where we laid plans for a cooperative FFA-BSA project to improve Farm Safety. That afternoon we visited the research facilities of U. S. Rubber Company, and later we were treated to a wonderful dinner and stage show.

The first few days in New York we visited with the Board of Directors of Esso Standard Oil Company, presented a program before the Garden Clubs of America, visited the Corn Products Refining Company research laboratory, and the Allied Chemical Corporation, where we met Mr. Glen Miller, Chairman of this year's Foundation Sponsoring Committee. We were their guests at a most enjoyable dinner and Broadway stage show. Over the weekend we toured the Empire State Building, took a tugboat trip around Manhattan, and visited the United Nations Building. The American Cyanamid Company made films of our New York activities for use in a farm news film. We were introduced at the Ed Sullivan Show on Sunday.

During the week we appeared on the Arthur Godfrey TV Show, visited the Dairymen's League, the New York Central Railroad System, and the New York State Bankers Association where we saw billions of dollars in gold bullion. Mr. Victor Emanuel of Avco arranged for us to visit the Stock Exchange, have dinner and attend a show at Radio City Music Hall.

We arrived in Pittsburgh the next day and visited the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, the H. J. Heinz Company, the Aluminum Company of America, Westinghouse Electric Corp. and toured the Homestead Works Refinery of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

In Akron we toured facilities of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, General Tire and Rubber Company and the B. F. Goodrich Company. We were impressed with the research these companies are doing to improve the quality of products for farmers.

We spent a most enjoyable weekend visiting with the families of friends of the FFA in Cleveland. We toured the Republic Steel Corporation, and the Eaton Axle Manufacturing Company. A highlight of our trip was the luncheon with the Cleveland Farmers Club, donor representatives, and many Future Farmers and their advisors from that area.

In Toledo we visited with the DeVilbiss Company and the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

In Detroit, we were guests of General Motors, Stran Steel, Massey-Harris-Ferguson, S. S. Kresge Company, Ford Motor Company, and Dodge Division of Chrysler Motors. We enjoyed our tour of Greenfield Village, the Henry Ford Museum.

On February 22 I made a guest appearance on the Allis-Chalmers "Farm and Home Hour." After a nice dinner they were treated to a professional basketball game. I joined my fellow officers in Minneapolis and we toured the Ringer St. Croix Company facilities, where many of our FFA jackets are made. A wonderful reception was held in St. Paul where we were made Honorary Citizens of the State. We also met many State Government officials, University of Minnesota personnel and hundreds of FFA members and their advisors. The next day Minneapolis-Moline, Pillsbury Mills, Archer-Daniels-Midland and General Mills served as hosts to us.

On February 25, in Milwaukee, the Wisconsin Motor Corporation and Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, had interesting tours for us through their plants. In Racine, we visited with the J. I. Case Company.

The final week of the Good-Will Tour was spent in Chicago where we visited with Charles Shuman, President of the American Farm Bureau, the Oliver Corporation, National Safety Council, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway System, Standard Oil of Indiana and Portland Cement Association.

We toured the huge plant of the Corn Products Refining Company at Argo. Later we met with officials of Quaker Oats, Allied Mills, Inc., and Swift & Company. We spoke at one of the sessions of the Central Regional Conference for workers in Agricultural Education. This was followed by a visit to Armour and Company, and International Minerals and Chemical Corporation. On March 5 we concluded our tour by visiting Kraft Foods, International Harvester Company, and Sears Roebuck. After an evening of entertainment, we departed for our homes, tired but pleased with the reception that we had received on the tour, and the tremendous respect shown to the FFA organization by those we worked and visited with. We are fortunate indeed to have friends in business and industry who are willing to generously give their time, talents and material support to the FFA.

I would be derelict if I failed to mention how pleased we officers were to work with the State Presidents and the staffs in each of the States we visited.

The next few weeks I appeared before many service clubs and FFA chapters. March 24-28, I toured Kentucky on our Kentucky Farmer-Banker Workshop meetings. On April 8, I spoke before the Kentucky Farm Press and Radio Association. On April 11, I began a week's visit with the Future Farmers of the Trinity-Neches Section of Texas.

I was greeted at the airport in Columbia, Missouri by over 500 members. Roger Heins, State President, and his fellow officers conducted an excellent State convention.

On April 24, I worked with Tommy Walker and his fellow officers at the Tennessee convention, where the public speaking and parliamentary procedure contests added much to the convention program.

April 27, found me in Kansas for the annual State Convention. Bob Krehbiel presided over this convention. Excellent judging and farm mechanics contests were held at the same time.

On May 1, I joined Jerry Cullison at the California convention.

Their program was well-planned and conducted by Gorden Hill and his fellow officers.

Nathan Reese and Jerry Rulon honored me by attending my home chapter banquet. My fellow chapter members really unfolded the welcome mat for the two visiting national officers.

On June 4-7, I attended the Kentucky convention. Roger Vinson headed up a challenging program and the awards night program was one of the highlights of the three-day meeting.

Joe Hughes and his fellow officers are to be commended for the excellent leadership at the South Carolina convention. I was impressed with this State's outstanding camp facilities.

On June 16, I attended the Virginia Convention where Bill Lawson and his fellow officers did a commendable job of planning and conducting the convention program. Dr. Walter Newman, one of the early leaders in the founding of the FFA, extended greetings to the Future Farmers in attendance.

On June 22, Nathan, Jerry Rulon, Jerry Cullison, Jerry Litton and I spoke at the annual meeting of the Garden Clubs of America in Portsmouth, New Hampshire. We all enjoyed the opportunity to become acquainted with the many historic Revolutionary War Shrines.

Jimmy Sinclair and his fellow officers headed up a fine convention program at North Carolina. The State band added much to the convention.

On July 18, I visited the West Virginia Convention. Bob Kelly and his fellow officers conducted a most successful convention in spite of the inclement weather. This group is to be commended for their 30th anniversary pageant and for having a number of former national officers and public speaking winners present.

Following our Board of Student Officers' meeting the week of July 21, I flew to Georgia, where Stewart Bloodworth and his officers did an excellent job of leadership. I was impressed by their efficient hard-working nominating committee. Following the Georgia convention, I attended the Kentucky Vo-Ag teachers conference where Bob Scott, Jerry Ringo and I spoke to the group.

Leon Smith and I had the pleasure of representing the FFA at the American Institute of Cooperation meeting, August 24-26 on the campus of Pennsylvania State University.

Following this, I represented the FFA at the Mid-South Fair in Memphis, Tennessee.

There are many to whom I am deeply indebted for making the past year so enjoyable and successful—Mr. Harlan Veal, local advisor; Mr. W. C. Montgomery, State FFA Executive Secretary; State staff personnel and the 12,000 Future Farmers of Kentucky.

For the hard work and sacrifices of my mother, brother and sister, I will always be indebted and wish to express my deepest appreciation.

To Dr. Spanton, Mr. Gray, Mr. Farrar and the entire Washington staff, as well as the Future Farmers Supply Service and personnel of the National Future Farmer Magazine, I will always be grateful.

The friendship and cooperation of Nathan, Royce, Leon, Jerry Cullison, and Jerry Rulon will be a part of my memories of FFA. My personal best wishes go out to you for continued success.

This richly rewarding experience has pointed out to me that there are many plateaus yet to be attained both for the FFA organization and for you as members of the FFA. We are counting on you fellows to continue the good work and to set high goals for yourselves and the FFA. Only you can make the FFA worthy of your highest ambitions. I am confident that you can and will continue to make it the finest farm boy organization in the world. May God's richest blessing guide our organization as we work toward these goals.

Respectfully submitted,

HOWARD DOWNING

Report of the National Student Secretary

After I left the National FFA Convention last year, I spent the next three months participating in many FFA activities throughout the State. I flew to Washington, D. C. on January 19 for the meeting of the Boards of Student Officers and Directors. While on the Good-Will Tour, we talked with many leaders in business and industry who gave us encouragement and expressed a keen interest in the Future Farmers of America.

NATHAN REESE
Student Secretary

On March 17, I left home for the Wyoming Convention. It was an inspiration to see Don Thoren, State President, and his fellow officers conduct an excellent convention. I went to Utah for a three-day convention. Kent Killian and the other State officers did a fine job as they conducted a well-attended convention.

The next eight days were devoted to more FFA banquets, before I departed for the Nebraska Convention. I wish to compliment the Nebraska Association for its excellent meeting and contests. Roger Doane and his fellow officers impressed me with their ability and their hospitality.

On April 15, I visited with Jerry Litton, past National Student Secretary, and Howard Downing at the Missouri Convention, which was well-attended and most interesting. Much of the success was due to the very capable officers under the leadership of Roger Heins. The reception for parents of FFA members really added to the effectiveness of this convention.

April 23-26 I attended my home State Convention. Max Lindsay, State President, did a commendable job of presiding over the convention, which was attended by nearly 3,000 boys. After devoting a week to FFA banquets, I left for Colorado on May 3. I was impressed by the leadership of the State officers under the guidance of Jim Ferguson. The appearance of Governor McNichols and Dr. Spanton added much to their convention. From there I went to Lexington, Kentucky, where I was met by Howard and Jerry Rulon. Our visit to the Bluegrass State was highlighted by the Nicholasville FFA Banquet. I spent June 4-7 in North Dakota. This convention was very colorful. State President Maynard Iverson and other officers did a magnificent job. I was impressed by the State Farmer Ceremony which added much to this well-attended convention. The number of parents of FFA members who were in attendance at this convention was remarkable.

June 22-25 were spent with my fellow officers on a tour of Massachusetts and New Hampshire. We spoke before a national meeting of the Garden Clubs of America. This group has extended to the national officers many opportunities to meet people interested in agriculture. July 20, I left for Washington, D. C. for our Second Board Meeting and a very enjoyable, yet busy week of activities.

Two weeks later, I arrived in Arizona where Jerry Cullison, Royce and I participated in a very inspiring convention which was capably led by Len Richardson. The convention ended with an impressive banquet, a colorful Star Farmer Ceremony and an address by Governor McFarland.

I left for Waterloo, Iowa, on September 26, for five days work at the National Dairy Cattle Congress, with Jerry Rulon. I visited with many Future Farmers, participated in the awards program, worked with the fine advisory committee and spoke to civic groups.

Many people have helped to make possible the experiences and opportunities I have enjoyed as a Future Farmer. I wish to thank Dr. Spanton; Mr. Gray; Mr. Farrar and other staff members in Washington; my State advisor, Mr. J. B. Perky, and his staff; and my local advisor, Mr. Clyde Triplett. I've never known a greater group of fellows than my fellow officers. Their friendship will be most cherished. Adequate words fail me in expressing my appreciation to my dad for making my opportunities in FFA possible. The help and encouragement I've received from my step-mother and my wife have meant much to me as a national officer.

May I encourage you FFA members to always be alert and realize your opportunities in FFA to improve agriculture, your community and yourself. This past year has taught me that people expect a Future Farmer to exemplify the best qualities of young manhood and to live to serve others. May I challenge you to help the FFA keep this reputation. May God bless each of you in your efforts to do "this inspiring task."

Respectfully submitted,

NATHAN REESE

Report of the Central Regional Vice President

My duties as a national officer began on October 30, when I began a three-day good-will tour with the Indiana State Officers. I had the pleasure of renewing many old acquaintances and making new friends.

JERRY D. RULON
Central Vice President

It was my pleasure to appear on the program of the Palmyra, Wisconsin, Corn and Grain Show with Governor Thompson on November 21st.

January 20 found me in Washington, D. C. for the January meetings of the Board of Student Officers and Board of Directors. Following these meetings we started the Good-Will Tour. It was inspiring to meet outstanding leaders of business and industry and to learn of their interest in agriculture.

I traveled to Lansing, Michigan for my first state convention on March 23-25. Gerald Neil presided over an exceptionally well-planned and organized convention. The meeting hall resembled the Kansas City Municipal Auditorium in many ways.

I flew to Washington, D. C. for the Automotive Safety Foundation's Youth Leaders Seminar on Traffic Safety. I presented a report on the activities and accomplishments of our leading chapters in the FFA Farm Safety Program.

March 27-29 I returned to Purdue for the Indiana convention. John King handled the convention very nicely. Following this I attended my local chapter banquet. The South Dakota convention was held at Brookings, April 19-23. Bill Fuller and his capable officers conducted a very business-like convention. The next four days I spent in Sioux City, Iowa where Daryl Murken conducted a large convention with over 2,000 registered. The band and chorus added much to an impressive convention.

I participated in the Minnesota convention May 4-6. The manner in which Jim Foss and his officers conducted the convention was commendable. Following the close of the convention I attended the Alexandria, Minnesota, Parent and Son Banquet. In mid-May I joined Nathan in Kentucky where we had a very enjoyable visit with Howard and his family, and visited many farms and attended his chapter banquet. I spoke at the Ohio Convention where Stan Augustus presided in a capable manner on June 5-7. I was impressed by their awards banquet. June 9-10 I attended the Wisconsin Convention at Green Lake. Alan Spors and his fellow officers contributed excellent leadership that resulted in a very successful convention. Don Kimmel did a very commendable job as he presided over the large Illinois convention. Their awards ceremony was very effective. The public relations activities, especially the use of radio and movies were good.

June 22-24 I met my fellow officers in Boston and spoke at a national meeting of the Garden Clubs of America. Following this meeting I attended the New Jersey Convention and observed Owen Pool and his officers conduct a well-balanced business and recreational program. The next day I met with FFA members at the Maryland convention where David Harry was the presiding officer. On July 3 I participated in the Indiana Leadership Conference. I spoke to the Indiana State Vocational Agriculture Teachers Conference on the 10th. I joined my fellow officers again in Washington the week of July 20 for the Boards of Student Officers and Directors meetings. We worked hard but we also found time for picnics, boating and swimming.

I enjoyed assisting with the Central Regional Public Speaking Contest held in conjunction with the Minnesota State Fair on August 20. The FFA activities play a big part in that fair. Nathan and I also enjoyed the National Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo, September 27-October 1, where I met many outstanding young dairy farmers and friends of the FFA.

Many fine people have greatly helped me during my seven years as an FFA member. I want to say thank you to my local advisors, Mr. Hoffman, Mr. Scott and Mr. Bridge; Mr. Kerr, my high school principal; Dean V. C. Freeman, School of Agriculture at Purdue University; as well as Mr. Kiltz, State Executive Secretary and Mr. Harold Taylor, State Advisor.

I owe a debt of gratitude to all of my friends in my home community. It has been a pleasure to work with Dr. Spanton, Mr. Gray and other members of the Washington staff.

I wish to thank my mom and dad for the Christian home they have given me and for their unlimited sacrifices. My brothers, Doyle and Lee have helped through the extra farm work done while I was on official FFA duties. I shall always cherish the friendship and my association with my fellow national officers.

I am grateful to God for the opportunities, wisdom, health, and the happiness He has granted me.

I am indebted to the Future Farmers of America for the opportunity to serve as a national vice president and the wonderful experiences which I have enjoyed.

Respectfully submitted,

JERRY D. RULON

Report of the North Atlantic Regional Vice President

October, 1957, will long be remembered as the start of the most educational and thrilling year of my life. Before I left Kansas City, I participated in the American Royal Parade, leadership training, and got acquainted with my officer duties. Upon my return home I attended many meetings of FFA groups in leadership training schools, chapter banquets, school assemblies, civic clubs and State Executive Committee meetings. I also met at the stockholders annual meeting of one of our donors and did radio interviews on the FFA.

LEON SMITH
*North Atlantic
Vice President*

From January 21-31, I attended leadership training and meetings of the National Boards in Washington, D. C. From February 3 to March 5, I was on the National Officer Good-Will Tour.

On March 26, at Cornell University, I represented the FFA on a panel which discussed the future of agriculture, and the part we Future Farmers have in determining farm policies.

I participated in the Massachusetts Association Convention April 10-12. President Winston Lavalley and his executive committee presented a well-planned, carefully-executed convention.

On April 15 and 16, I attended and spoke to the North Atlantic Regional Conference for Supervisors and Teacher Trainers in Agricultural Education, held in New York City.

On May 7, I attended the Delaware Convention. The program was interesting. I attended the Rhode Island State Vo-Ag Field Day on May 14, where I assisted in the various Statewide Judging Contest Activities. May 15-17, I attended the New York State Convention. President Larry Button and his fellow officers conducted the largest convention which I attended. Program features were the band, chorus and the speaking contest.

My second largest convention was in Pennsylvania, where the excellent band and chorus added much to the convention. President Glenn Fetrow ran a smooth convention that was filled with many activities, including an evening with the FHA girls.

On June 19, I greeted the educational exchange students from Great Britain and toured New York City with them. Later, I went to Maine's convention from June 23-25. The convention was well-organized and featured a State Chapter Meeting Contest. Neil Crane did an exceptional job.

I traveled to New Hampshire where Jerry Pendleton and his fellow officers conducted their convention, June 26 and 27. On July 1-3, I participated in the interesting Vermont convention, which was held on the grounds of a beautiful New England estate. President Louis Trepp and his capable officers are to be highly commended for the fine job at the Connecticut convention, which I attended July 13-15.

July 20-25, I spent attending the National Board Meetings in Washington, D. C.

I visited the first State FFA Fair held in Connecticut, August 1-2. I particularly enjoyed discussing FFA with Governor Abraham A. Ribicoff, while he toured the fair grounds with the State officers. I wish to commend the Connecticut Association on this excellent activity which can do much to promote the FFA.

I served as advisor of the Youth Host Committee at the American Institute of Cooperation meeting at Pennsylvania State University. I further assisted President Downing at this meeting.

On September 12 and 13, I participated in the program of FFA activities at the Eastern States Exposition, which included the Regional Public Speaking Contest, and was toastmaster for the Awards Banquet.

October 6-7 was spent at the annual meeting of the North-East Poultry Producers Coop in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. While there, I served as emcee of a "Youth Wants to Know" panel, featuring outstanding men of the poultry industry.

I owe a great deal to many persons for the part they played in making this year of wonderful experiences possible to me; Among which, are Mr. R. C. S. Sutliff, my State advisor; Mr. J. O. Sanders, State executive secretary; State staff members; and Mr. Paul Craner, my local advisor.

The friendship of each of my fellow officers will always be treasured. Many thanks go to my wife and family for the many sacrifices in time, energy and money they made to enable me to carry on my duties as a national officer.

Fellow Future Farmers, let us look forward to a bountiful future in agriculture. May we be the leaders of tomorrow and influence the important roles which agriculture will continue to play in molding the economy of our nation.

Good luck to all of you.

Respectfully submitted,

LEON C. SMITH

Report of the Southern Regional Vice President

When I left the national convention last year, I was filled with eagerness and excitement, yet solemnly aware of the great responsibility and many obligations which were before me. I found myself faced with a heavy schedule of civic club meetings and various FFA activities.

ROYCE BODIFORD
Southern Vice President

On January 21, I attended the Boards of Directors and Student Officers meetings in Washington, D. C. followed by the annual Good-Will Tour.

March 26, I flew to Little Rock, Arkansas, to attend the Southern Regional Teachers' Conference. I found the conference to be very informative and educational, and I left there with a satisfied realization that Vocational Agricultural Education in the nation is in very capable hands.

My first State convention was May 26th in Arkansas, where I witnessed a very excellent convention, conducted by State President Claude Ramey and his fellow officers. On June 5, I attended the Alabama State Convention, where President Bob Helms and other officers had a very successful meeting. On June 8, I went to Florida where I was met by a number of State officers, Stewart Bloodworth, State President of Georgia, and Jerry Lowery, State President of Tennessee. Lloyd Dubroff and his fine slate of officers did a marvelous job of planning and conducting their convention that had many unique features.

I arrived in Louisiana on June 11, to find a splendid convention in full swing, under President Bill Lambert and his hard working fellow officers. Their sweetheart contest was quite outstanding. On June 23, Mr. Gray and I visited the Mississippi Convention, where I thought State President Kenney Gray and his officers did a fine job. Both Mr. Gray and I were honored when the Honorary Mississippi Farmer Degree was conferred upon us. July 14 found me at the Texas State Convention. The Lone Star Future Farmers, under the capable direction of State President Billy Penn, had one of the finest conventions in the history of our association. I was joined here by Dr. Spanton who brought honor, inspiration and distinction to the meeting. The convention was climaxed with a State Farmer Banquet with two thousand in attendance.

July 21-25 I attended my second National Board meetings in Washington, D. C. I attended the New Mexico convention August 4-6 with Jerry Cullison and Arizona State President, Len Richardson. We enjoyed a fruitful convention under the leadership of S.M. Davis, State President. Jerry and I received the Honorary State Farmer Degree. On August 13, I went to Tucson to attend the Arizona State Convention. In Len Richardson and his officers I saw unusual ability and strong leadership as they conducted one of the best conventions I attended.

I want to express my sincere thanks to every member of the FFA for making this year of wonderful experiences and lasting friendships possible. Working with my fellow national officers has meant more to me than I can express. May our bond of friendship last forever. To the entire staff of Dr. Spanton's, go my thanks for assistance and guidance. I am greatly indebted to Mr. George H. Hurt and Mr. E. C. Weekley, State staff members, and Mr. Sam Rector my Chapter Advisor.

I want to express gratitude to my parents for their advice and for the many sacrifices they have made for me. The love and encouragement of my wife, Helen, has helped make my duties as a national officer easier.

Fellow Future Farmers, I urge you to take advantage of all the limitless and boundless opportunities offered through FFA. Set your goals high and work hard following the principles of our FFA Motto and Creed.

May God richly bless all of you.

Respectfully submitted,

ROYCE BODIFORD

Report of the Pacific Regional Vice President

Fellow Future Farmers: With sincere humility and appreciation, I thank you for the greatest year of my life. I shall long remember the gracious hospitality many of you extended to me and also the privilege I had of meeting the top executives of industry, business and agriculture throughout the country. It has been an inspiration visiting with many of you.

There were many highlights in the past year. They started with the Arizona State Fair in November. Later I flew to Colorado Springs to represent the FFA at the National Grange Convention. I enjoyed working with Wib Justi, Chuck Ross, and former Vice President of the FFA Fred Reed. I was initiated into the seven degrees of the National Grange during the convention.

JERRY CULLISON
Pacific Vice President

A week later I spoke at the State convention of the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation. In January, Len Richardson, Arizona FFA President and I participated in the Arizona National Livestock Show. On January 20, I attended the meetings of your National Board of Directors and National Board of Student Officers in Washington, D. C. After a week of leadership training, I spent from February 3, to March 5 on the National Officer Good-Will Tour.

I attended my first State FFA Convention at Bend, Oregon, on March 18. State President Adin Hester and his fellow officers are to be commended on a most outstanding convention. The public speaking and parliamentary procedure contests were indeed impressive.

I flew to Boise, Idaho, on March 25, to attend the Idaho Convention. President Clif Ellred and his fellow officers conducted their convention in an admirable manner and hosted a well-planned banquet. At the close of the convention, I visited Clif and his fine family on their farm at Fruitland, Idaho. I then flew to Pullman, Washington, to attend the Washington State Convention. Under the leadership of Bob Hutchins and his officers the convention was a big success.

In April I spoke at chapter banquets in Arizona before going to California on the 30th to join Howard Downing for the California State Convention at San Luis Obispo. President Gorden Hill and his fellow officers presented a well-organized program and are to be complimented on a job well done.

Upon leaving San Luis Obispo, Howard and I traveled to San Margarita, California, for a delightful visit with Mrs. Raymond C. Firestone and her parents on their ranch.

The Nevada State Convention held at Elko on June 9 and 10, was headed by President Fred Crook. Governor Charles H. Russell delivered a most inspiring speech at the banquet—a fitting climax to a fine convention. On my trip home I visited with Bryan Hafen, 1957 Regional Star Farmer from Nevada.

On June 21, I flew to Boston, Massachusetts, where I joined Howard, Jerry, Nathan, former National Student Secretary Jerry Litton and Mr. H. N. Hunsicker, to participate in the national convention of the Garden Clubs of America. We visited many historical sites and enjoyed the beauty of New England. We also visited the submarine, U. S. S. Darter and had dinner with its officers.

The national officers met in Washington, D. C. on July 20 for the summer meetings with the national board of Directors. We enjoyed a picnic with the staffs and families of the U. S. Office of Education, Magazine, and Supply Service. Another evening, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foss Wilson graciously entertained us aboard their yacht on a cruise down the Potomac, a novel experience for one reared on the desert.

Royce Bodiford and I met in Albuquerque, New Mexico on August 3 to attend the New Mexico State Convention. President S. M. Davis and officers conducted an interesting and inspiring program. George Dixon, British exchange student, returned to Arizona with me.

On August 13, Nathan, Royce, Bryan Hafen and I participated in the Arizona Leadership Conference. Arizona enjoyed playing host to George Dixon and FFA visitors from New Mexico. The strong leadership of Len Richardson and his fellow officers was evident throughout their excellent convention. I enjoyed the crowning of the State FFA Sweetheart. The banquet honoring the Star State Farmer and Arizona Man-of-the-Year in Agriculture was most impressive.

This has been a wonderful year. I owe much to Mr. Bob E. Taylor, State Advisor and his staff, and my chapter advisors, Mr. Wendell Smith, Mr. Paul Bell and Mr. Elmer Felton. I would like to express my appreciation to Dr. Spanton, Mr. Gray and other staff members for their counsel and assistance. I shall always cherish the friendship of my fellow officers. I wish them the best of everything in the future. Words cannot adequately express what my parents have done for me.

I thank my Father in Heaven for his guidance and protection while I have served as a national officer.

To each of you Future Farmers, I would like to say that never have I been more proud than when I wore the blue jacket of our organization. The friends I have made in the FFA are the treasures I shall keep through life. Even though I shall discard my jacket, I will always be interested in your activities and extend a helping hand if and when it is ever needed.

Respectfully submitted,

Report of the National Executive Secretary

Wm. Paul Gray

This year, we are celebrating the "FFA at 30." It is, therefore, appropriate that your convention feature some of the outstanding achievements made by your organization since it was organized.

We take pride in the number of former FFA members who have made a beginning and an advancement in farming through vocational agriculture. The knowledge and abilities used by today's successful farmer have been obtained through a well-planned educational program based upon the needs of the individual. The fact that farm production has increased over 30 per cent since the FFA was organized offers ample proof that our FFA members are not only learning to produce farm commodities efficiently, but they are becoming proficient in organizing and coordinating their entire farm into a well organized and skillfully managed farm business. Our members are meeting the complexity of farm marketing by studying and applying sound financing and marketing programs and practices. Interwoven with the above is the proper use of soil and water management to conserve our natural resources. Because FFA members live and work on the land they are aware of the importance of improving and maintaining the farm home and farm for desirable social and economic environment and better living. The rural leadership that has been learned through the FFA training has prepared our members for both living and competing in a society and agriculture that has grown exceedingly complex the last 30 years. This leadership has influenced many of the trends and policies that affect agriculture. May we continue to grow in achievements and expect greater things of the Future Farmers in the years to come.

The following report on accomplishments of the Future Farmers of America is for the year ended June 30, 1958:

Your national officers have worked hard for you this past year. They have won many friends to the FFA because they are friendly, very capable, sincere, and possess excellent qualities of leadership.

Our records indicate that each State Association held a convention during the past year. National officers attended 47 of these conventions. Many States gave special recognition to friends interested in FFA, parents, teachers and school administrators.

Forty-five State associations held special leadership schools to provide leadership training to over 5,917 chapters. During the past year 19 State associations also operated camps.

One hundred twenty-nine reports on chapter accomplishments were received in the National Chapter Award Program this past year—an increase over the number last year. We are pleased with the increased interest and also continued improvement in the quality of work these chapters are doing in FFA.

Because of adverse conditions it has been impossible to complete the landscaping of our new FFA building. However, the land has been cleared, leveled and seeded to rye grass. Final lawn seeding will be done in the summer of 1959. A new road has been built and the parking lot area increased.

We are pleased that the Future Farmers Supply Service has continued to show growth and at the same time not lose sight of the importance of quality and price in providing service to you.

You have indicated a fine growing interest in your National Future Farmer Magazine through the increased number of subscribers. May we congratulate the States who now have 100 per cent of their membership supporting the magazine through subscriptions. From the progress that is now being made we can look forward to the very near future when every FFA member may be receiving the magazine.

Many chapters are taking advantage of using the Official FFA Calendar as an excellent FFA promotional activity and also a means of fund raising. We look to the future with confidence for increased chapter participation in this excellent means of selling FFA.

The Future Farmers of America have greatly influenced rural youth organization development in other countries through an educational exchange program. We are proud of our "good will" ambassadors who have done such an outstanding job representing the FFA abroad. We appreciate the work you have done with our foreign visitors in helping them develop a better understanding of agriculture through an exchange of ideas and to establish a strong bond of good will, friendship and mutual understanding between the rural youth of the countries involved.

Our members are greatly indebted to more than 300 donors to the Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc. for the awards that have been given by the FFA Foundation. We are pleased with the accomplishments of our members who have been recognized for outstanding work in agriculture and leadership.

The fine record of accomplishments during the past year under the leadership of your officers and the guidance of your teachers of vocational agriculture is noteworthy. May we continue to improve ourselves and our organization through setting high goals and accepting real challenges. One challenge is to increase our membership. Not all students enrolled in vocational agriculture are FFA members. These students should belong to the FFA to help themselves and to strengthen our organization. May we also look to the future with confidence for a continued increase in members and local chapters participating in all FFA activities on a State and national level.

Report of the National Treasurer

July 8, 1958

Officers and Directors,
Future Farmers of America,
Washington, D. C.

Gentlemen:

We have examined the books of account and record of R. E. Bass, Treasurer, Future Farmers of America, Richmond, Virginia, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1958, and submit herewith our report, consisting of the statements listed in the foregoing index together with our comments thereon. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and statement of revenue and expenditures present fairly the financial position of Future Farmers of America at June 30, 1958, and the results of its operations for the fiscal year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

LEACH, CALKINS & SCOTT,
Certified Public Accountants

Receipts and Disbursements

There are presented in Exhibits "C" and "D" statements showing in summary form all of the recorded cash receipts and disbursements of the year under review. A list of membership dues collected during the year is presented in Schedule 1.

Explanatory Comments

CASH IN BANK was verified by direct correspondence with the depository and reconciliation of the balance reported with the amount shown by the books. All recorded cash receipts were traced to the record of their deposit in bank, and all disbursements through the bank account were evidenced by properly executed, cancelled checks, with the exception of checks outstanding at June 30, 1958. The addition of the cash books was verified by us.

LOAN RECEIVABLE was confirmed by direct correspondence with the debtor. This account represents amounts advanced to "The National Future Farmer" as follows:

Cash advances.....	$36,786.20
Expenses paid.....	7,713.80
TOTAL.....	$44,500.00

The foregoing cash advances were made to the magazine in prior years.

FIXED ASSETS are stated at cost, in the case of those at the National Camp, plus the fair market value of gifts received during prior years.

Office furniture and equipment are stated at their estimated value at October 31, 1941, plus subsequent additions at cost.

The national office building is stated at cost.

Because of the fact that none of the fixed assets have ever been depreciated and because there has undoubtedly been a considerable volume of unrecorded additions to office and camp properties by gift and other unrecorded sources, the values of the assets shown on the balance sheet are probably far from their actual worth. For this reason we again suggest that all property assets be appraised in order that they may be adjusted to their current valuation.

NOTE PAYABLE, in the amount of $100,000.00, represents monies borrowed from Future Farmers of America Foundation, Incorporated, at 3% interest. This was used to help finance the cost of the new building.

SURPLUS is analyzed in the balance sheet.

Star Farmer Awards

STAR AMERICAN FARMERS FOR 1958

Jimmie John Jarnagin, Jr., of Jetmore, Kansas, the Star Farmer of America, stands in the center of the star platform. Regional Star Farmers, left to right, are James Speer, Blairs Mills, Pennsylvania; Malcolm Niles, Loleta, California, and Ethan Labrier, Kenton, Oklahoma.

Since 1929, Star Farmers have been selected annually from the American Farmer Candidates who receive the Degree at the time of the National Convention. A check for $1,000 went to the Star Farmer of America, and checks for $500 were given to the other three Star Farmers. The 1958 winners were:

Star Farmer of America—Jimmie John Jarnagin, Jr., Jetmore, Kansas

Star Farmer, Pacific Region—Malcolm A. Niles, Loleta, California

Star Farmer, North Atlantic Region—James H. Speer, Jr., Blairs Mills, Pennsylvania

Star Farmer, Southern Region—Ethan Labrier, Kenton, Oklahoma

1958 STAR FARMERS

The highlight of the Tuesday evening program featured the Massing of State Flags. Following this, the Star American Farmer Awards were presented.

JIMMIE JOHN JARNAGIN, JR.

Star Farmer of America

The 1958 Star Farmer of America is a 21-year-old wheat and cattle farmer from the dryland farming section of southwestern Kansas where agriculture is largely influenced by the whims of nature and prosperity depends upon the farmer's fortitude to stick when times are hard, and management foresight to strike for big stakes when the rains come.

Such is the story of Jimmie John Jarnagin, Jr., who weathered two years of searing drouth but came back during the past two years to earn more than $30,000.00. Jimmie had unusual help from his father in getting started in farming. He added unusual management ability and hard work of his own to develop a 1600-acre farming and ranching program with a gross value of $111,071.11. His program this year included 413 head of beef cattle, 230 acres of wheat, 155 acres of silage and grain sorghums, and about 1200 acres in grass. He owns 1280 acres and rents the remaining 320.

Jimmie's early years as a vocational agriculture student were not particularly impressive. Even though his father had bought a 160-acre farm in Jimmie's name in 1945, the boy's supervised farming program as a freshman in the Hodgeman County Community High School at Jetmore consisted of only two registered Hereford heifers to begin his beef cattle herd. As a sophomore he added 12 sheep and half interest in 70 acres of milo. Drouth got most of the milo, and he lost money on both the sheep and the cattle. His net labor income for those first two years was $126.80.

It was then, in 1954, that his high school vocational agriculture instructor, George Turnbull, got father and son together for a long talk about the boy's future. The elder Mr. Jarnagin had a large farming operation and he was past 65. His older son and two daughters already were married and away from home. He made arrangements for Jimmie to purchase 800 acres of the home farm for $24,000.00 on a time payment basis. There was a 450-acre growing crop of wheat on the land at the time of the purchase. Jimmie expanded his beef herd to 24 and his sheep to 20. The wheat crop was good, and he harvested 6,500 bushels. His labor income at the end of the year amounted to $13,889.50. With it, he paid off $12,000.00 of the amount owed his father.

That was to be his last good wheat crop until this past summer. In 1955 he netted $142.00 from 400 acres. There were failures again in '56 and '57, although he did get returns of about $2,400.00 during each of those two years from land placed in the Soil Bank.

In the meantime, Jimmie sold his sheep and attempted to expand his beef herd. In 1955 he pastured and fed 70 head of his father's cows for one-half the calf crop. Selling his share of the calves, he bought more cows. Then the drouth got worse. At the beginning of 1956 Jimmie had 52 cows, 4 heifers, and 2 bulls. Because of feed and water shortage, he sold his entire calf crop and 20 of the poorer cows.

The rains came in the spring of 1957, too late for that year's wheat crop but a blessing on the native buffalo and bluestem pastures. Jimmie bought 320 acres more of grassland from his father for $15,000.00, and leased 320 acres from his mother at $2.50 per acre, per year. He got 31 calves from his 34 cows. In the fall he borrowed more money to buy 214 head of stocker steers and cows. He was so heavily in debt by this time that another failure of wheat and pasture could have resulted in his loss of the entire farm.

But the 214 cattle represented a particularly timely purchase. He paid $21 per hundred pounds for them, wintered them on wheat pasture and milo stubble. By last spring the steers had gained an average of 250 pounds each, and prices had gone up. He sold 107 at $30 per CWT, getting enough to pay off his note and still keep the remainder of the steers and cows to eat this year's good pastures.

At the time he filed his application for the FFA's American Farmer degree last spring, young Jarnagin had nearly $30,000.00 worth of cattle, $70,000.00 in land and buildings, and $11,071.11 in machinery and other miscellaneous items. He still owed $33,000.00 on the land, $14,500.00 on the cattle, and $965.00 in other liabilities, for a net worth of $62,606.11.

Of that amount he could count $53,634.05 gained in actual earnings from farming and other sources over a period of six years. The remainder represented his father's gift of the original 160-acre farm, and increased inventory value of the land he had purchased.

Jimmie is married and has a two-year-old son. He and his wife, Charlene, with some help from her father, have built an attractive rambler-style home on the ranch. They're still working on the development of landscaping, a garage, shop, corrals, and other structures needed around the farmstead.

In high school Jimmie was a leader in the FFA, Student Council president, captain of the football and basketball teams, and played in the school band. He and Charlene are active in community affairs now, particularly in the activities of Farm Bureau and their local United Presbyterian Church.

Jimmie continues his interest in vocational agriculture by participating in a young farmers class conducted by the present teacher, Hubert Mai. Mai visits the Jarnagin farm frequently to help with the development of plans for improving the farm.

Jimmie has joined the Soil Conservation District and is in the process of developing a complete conservation program for the farm, including a large farm pond where he hopes to store enough water to irrigate some of his crops. Jimmie started building a garage last spring, and had plans ready for a machine shed. Most of the lumber needed for corrals and loading facilities was on hand. "My immediate goal is to maintain a herd of 100 cows which will be used to produce feeder calves," Jimmie said. "I plan to continue to winter stocker steers whenever feed and pasture are plentiful. My farmstead will grow as rapidly as my time and funds are available."

ETHAN LABRIER

Star Farmer—Southern Region

The America Star Farmer of the South for 1958 is a 21-year-old rancher from Kenton, Oklahoma, Ethan Labrier. Kenton is at the far western end of the Oklahoma panhandle. Part of young Labrier's ranch is in New Mexico.

Ethan manages the family estate ranch of 5,300 owned and 8,500 leased acres, and in addition leases 4,400 acres of range land under his own name. He personally owns 76 cows, 106 young stock, and 302 steers with a total value of $62,465.00. In addition, he has a partnership interest in the estate herd totalling about 375 cows and their calves, 60 heifers, and 24 registered Hereford bulls. The value of his share of the partnership stock is estimated at about $21,000.00.

Mr. Labrier died in June, 1950, a year before Ethan was to enter high school. It became the boy's responsibility to help his mother, Mrs. Kathleen Labrier, operate the ranch.

Ethan transferred to Boise City High School, 40 miles from Kenton when he was a sophomore, so he would be able to take the vocational agriculture course offered there. He boarded in town during the school year, returning home weekends to help with the ranch work. He started accumulating beef cattle of his own, and was permitted to keep them on the home ranch in return for his labor with the family herd.

At Boise City he was president of the FFA chapter, letterman in baseball, football, basketball, and track.

When he finished high school in the spring of 1955 Ethan married his high school sweetheart and assumed full managership of the ranch. His two brothers help out on the ranch in the summer.

Ethan's mother leaves no question about who is responsible for operating the ranch: "Ethan is full manager of our ranch and has been since June, 1955," she says. "He is charged with all responsibilities including the purchase and selling of cattle, purchase of feed, hiring of help, and all decisions on care and management of the herd."

Hardly had Ethan taken over management of the ranch until a four-year drouth and steady decline in cattle prices began, but the young rancher kept his cattle, feeding them when necessary, and burning cactus with a blow torch for them to eat. His management training paid off. He continued to buy good registered bulls for his herd, even though times were hard. He maintains a 20 to 1, cow to bull, ratio because "it pays off in a better calf crop."

Ethan held his herd while others were selling, and was well stocked with good cattle when the rains came in 1957 and the price pendulum swung to the better in the fall.

He keeps a sharp eye on the cattle market. Part of his management plan is to locate corrals at central points where he never has to move cattle great distances. This is important to him at marketing time, for cattle lose pounds every mile they must be moved. Ethan and his brothers can handle most of the work by themselves with this arrangement. As on most ranches, the working day begins at 5 a.m. when cattle are easier to handle and weight loss is kept to a minimum.

Ethan checks his herd often. With well-trained horses and a trailer that he can pull close to most of the ranges, he sees a lot of country in a day. This close checking helped him save cattle during the big panhandle blizzard in the spring of 1957. He didn't lose a single head.

Vocational agriculture training has encouraged him to develop other improvements on the ranch and with his cattle. He is now a cooperator with the Cimarron County Soil Conservation District and with the ASC. Part of his conservation program is the building of new ponds and lakes on the ranch for soil and water conservation and the building of diversion ditches to spread water on the range.

The young rancher continues to look to his former vocational agriculture teacher, John Coltharp, for advice.

Last year, Ethan stepped out on his own to lease 5,000 acres of land in Cimarron County. He stocked it with cattle, then sold it in January of this year at a nice profit. Later, in nearby New Mexico, he leased 4,400 acres of ranch land. Ethan bought 302 head of steers to stock it, using profits from previous operations and a $24,200.00 loan from his Clayton, New Mexico, banker. This note is the only liability on Ethan's balance sheet. He has assets of $132,128.00, leaving a net worth of $107,928.00. Of that amount, $54,358.00 came by inheritance; the remainder from hard work and good management.

Ethan plans to buy land in the near future. Last summer, he was busy contracting heifers for fall delivery so he could enlarge his own cow herd. He's staking his future on farming and ranching.

MALCOLM A. NILES

Star Farmer—Pacific Region

Malcolm A. Niles, Star Farmer of the Pacific Region, from Loleta, California, was graduated from the Fortuna Union High School in the spring of 1956. His vocational agriculture instructor is Roland F. Wentzel. He is now maintaining a farming program at home while studying agricultural engineering at the Davis branch of the University of California.

His farming record indicates that lessons in agricultural production were learned well in high school vocational agriculture. But the three ranches he will operate have serious problems of flooding and soil erosion, along with the need for installing an irrigation system. That, combined with need for more skill in the efficient use of farm machinery, prompted him to sacrifice good income from farming for four years to take the college engineering course.

Malcolm has a 50 percent interest with his father in the home "Whispering Willows" farm of 80 acres where they maintain a milking herd of dairy cows, and the nearby 157-acre "Sea Breeze Ranch" where they winter dairy and beef heifers and calves, and raise hay for the stock.

A third place, "Blue Camass Ranch" has 657 acres and is devoted to beef production. Malcolm owns one-half interest in this ranch with his mother.

His personal ownership of livestock includes 36 registered Guernsey dairy cows, a bull, and 18 heifers; 18 head of registered Hereford cattle and 80 head of grade Herefords. He estimates the total value of his cattle at $31,055.00. In addition, he owns outright about $6,000.00 worth of farm machinery and estimates the value of his share of machinery and equipment owned in partnership to be about $11,000.00.

Young Niles has an outstanding record of leadership in his school and FFA chapter. In high school he won a $1,000.00 prize for an essay on the uses of cement. Later he won $250.00 in State and national prizes in a soil conservation essay. On completion of high school he was awarded four college scholarships totaling $1,100.00.

When he entered high school in 1952 Malcolm carried a farming program in vocational agriculture of 18 registered Guernseys, and two registered Hereford calves, using land and facilities of the home farm in return for his labor. He has continued to expand his dairy herd yearly and in 1955 was given a one-fourth interest in the farm. The following year, serious floods caused considerable damage to the farm and Mr. Niles agreed to increase his ownership interest to one-half, providing the income from Malcolm's milk would be turned into the farm recovery and operation.

In the past four years he has been able to pay for his share of the ranch from beef income, buy machinery and equipment for making hay, and put in about $2,000.00 worth of improvements.

His agreement provides for complete management of the Blue Camass Ranch, and to maintain the small herds of his brother and sister there. Income from the beef, above that needed for operation of the ranch, belongs to Malcolm and is used for his college expenses or expansion of his herd.

His complicated partnership agreements necessitate much record keeping. When he submitted his application for the American Farmer degree, his State FFA Advisor, Byron J. McMahon, commented:

"This is one of the most complete sets of FFA records ever submitted to the State FFA office."

The records show that Malcolm has earned nearly $50,000 from farming since he began as a vocational agriculture student in high school six years ago. Much of that amount has been income from milk that is being used to pay for his share of the Whispering Willows and Sea Breeze farms. Other income has helped to build up his inventory of livestock and machinery, and for his college expenses. The total value of his holdings is estimated at $137,619.76. This includes his share of the home farm that is still being paid for with his milk.

Malcolm's records have been an important factor in improving the quality of dairy cattle on the farm. By keeping individual cow records and culling low producers, Malcolm and his father were able last year to increase the average annual milk production per cow from 7,019 pounds to 8,403 pounds, and butterfat from 347 pounds to 424 pounds. They now have 27 cows averaging more than 400 pounds butterfat.

There's a lot more work to be done to bring the farms up to top shape. Last winter the nearby Eel River changed course and washed away five acres of the Whispering Willows farm lowland. As if that were not enough, in March high winds destroyed two barns on the Blue Camass Ranch.

Those items, plus the planned irrigation program offer considerable challenge for the young farmer and budding engineer.

JAMES H. SPEER, JR.

Star Farmer—North Atlantic Region

A young dairy farmer from Pennsylvania who has developed a small herd of Holstein cows with outstanding production records is the Star Farmer of the North Atlantic Region.

James has 18 producing cows. During his last full year of record keeping his herd averaged 12,900 pounds of milk and 496 pounds of butterfat per cow.

"I consider any cow producing less than 10,000 pounds of milk and 400 pounds of butterfat a cull animal," James says.

James has known he wanted to be a farmer ever since he was six years old. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Speer, Sr., encouraged him, gave him a heifer calf that he later carried as a 4-H Club project. By the time he got to high school and old enough to join the FFA he had two producing cows and a heifer calf. His interest in farming by then was such that he passed up the nearest high school and enrolled at the Juniata Joint High School at Mifflintown, 37 miles away, where he could get the vocational agriculture course.

"I spent three hours a day on the school bus, leaving home at 6:45 a.m. and returning at 5:00 p.m.," he relates. "During the winter months I left home before daylight and returned after dark."

James began a program of gradual expansion of his dairy herd through natural increase and with money he earned on the home farm. As a sophomore in high school, and with the help of his vocational agriculture instructor, Lloyd E. Guiser, he began the job of keeping farm accounts for his father's entire 325-acre dairy operation. He won first place in the State three successive years in a farm records contest.

Upon James' graduation from high school in 1955, Mr. Speer offered him a full partnership in the farm. James worked with him on this basis one year. But the farm was too small to provide adequate income for both partners; there was a younger brother coming along, and Mr. Speer, at 44, was not thinking about retiring. In January, 1957, James made arrangements to buy an adjoining 350-acre farm, complete with livestock and machinery. He paid $17,200.00 for everything.

The livestock had been poorly handled, neither did he have any use for the machinery which, although fairly new, had been allowed to deteriorate. James went to work feeding and grooming the cattle, repairing and repainting the machinery, and in April held a public auction. The sale netted $10,541.17, leaving him an investment of $6,658.83 in the farm land and buildings.

He moved his good cattle to his own farm and with planning help from the Soil Conservation Service has made larger fields for more efficient use of modern machinery and has laid out fields for contour farming. Complete soil tests of the land have been made, with the accompanying application of 55 tons of limestone and 18 tons of fertilizer to the land. He repainted the barn, rebuilt the machine shed, and removed some obsolete poultry houses. Of the total farm, 230 acres are in timber with the remainder tillable or in pasture.

James' current farming program includes 18 producing cows and 7 head of young stock. He also raises registered Hampshire swine, with six brood sows and a boar. He fed out 25 hogs last winter; had 40 more in his spring pig crop.

Last spring 16 of his gilt pigs were sold to other Future Farmers for breeding stock in their supervised farming program.

Crops on the farm this year included 16 acres of corn, 14 acres of oats, 6 acres of barley, 7.5 acres of wheat, and 56.5 acres for hay and pasture. He owns outright one tractor, a manure spreader, and milking equipment. Other needed machinery is owned in partnership with Mr. Speer. Father and son save much of the overhead cost on their two farms by swapping labor and cooperative use of machinery.

The total of James' assets is estimated at $33,101.44. He owes $3,400.00 on the farm, leaving a net worth of just under $30,000.00.

In addition to being tops in farming, James also has been one of Pennsylvania's outstanding young leaders. He served one year terms as vice president and president of the Juniata FFA Chapter, then president of his area FFA group. In 1956 he was elected president of the State FFA Association. While in school he was an honor student, and baseball letterman.

At present, he is active in church activities, a member of Farm Bureau, and Dairy Herd Improvement Association, and a member of the young farmers class conducted by Vo-Ag teacher Lloyd Guiser at the Juniata Joint Union High School.

National Chapter Award Program

One hundred and twenty-five Future Farmers of America local chapters were honored at the 31st national convention in Kansas City during the presentation of awards in the organization's National Chapter Award Program.

The National FFA Chapter Award Program, conducted annually by the organization, is designed to encourage and reward chapter effort, stimulate group action among members, and to encourage improvement in local chapter programs of work. Both the interest shown and the actual accomplishments over a period of years give ample evidence of the effectiveness of this event. The Award Program has been a valuable aid in stimulating both individual and cooperative effort and in crystallizing chapter programs of work into a series of worthwhile undertakings.

Chapters were grouped into Gold Emblem, Silver Emblem, and Bronze Emblem classifications, according to their records of accomplishment in supervised farming, cooperative activities, community service, leadership activities, earnings and savings by members, conduct of meetings, scholarship of members, recreation and other general activities.

Each chapter in the contest had been selected locally to be entered in the national competition. Winners receiving an emblem rating for the first time were given plaques. Other received spurs to place on plaques previously awarded. The one hundred and twenty-five chapters in the national contest represent the best from the Future Farmers of America's 8,993 local chapters. The 1958 winners were:

Public Speaking Contest

The Annual National FFA Public Speaking Contest was first made possible in 1930 through the interest and generosity of Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas who, for two years sponsored the event and offered prizes. From that time until 1944 the national organization of Future Farmers of America was the sponsor. During the past fourteen years the Future Farmers of America Foundation, Incorporated, sponsored the contest and gave the awards.

NATIONAL PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

The Twenty-ninth National FFA Public Speaking Contest took place in the Main Arena of the Municipal Auditorium on Monday, October 13. The five finalists placing in the order indicated were:

1. Stuart Lamb, Hamilton, New York—"Farm Cooperatives in the Changing Agriculture Picture"
2. Carl Pyo, Wailuku, Maui, Hawaii—"Happiness and Prosperity Through Farm Safety"
3. Gregory Click, Ephrata, Washington—"Your Vocation in Agriculture"
4. Ben F. Keahey, Dumas, Arkansas—"The Farmer's Future"
5. James Oesterreicher, Chesaning, Michigan—"The Organization of an FFA Steer Cooperative"

Each contestant was the author of his own speech, having studied his subject, prepared the draft and practiced its delivery. Each speech represented original thought and original work on the part of the contestants, with coaching on composition and delivery limited, by the rules of the contest, to facilities of the school from which the contestant came. Each boy was at liberty to choose any current subject of an agricultural character.

The contest was judged by three competent persons. Prior to the contest the judges were furnished with typewritten copies of the contestants' productions which they read and graded on content and composition. At the contest the judges scored each contestant on his production. A maximum of 300 points was allowed for the written production and 700 points for delivery. Questions were asked by the judges to test each contestant on his ability to think on his feet and on general knowledge of his subject.

Farm Cooperatives in the Changing Agriculture Picture

By—Stuart Lamb, Hamilton, New York

Today we are living in an age of automation, an age where big business is dominant. To keep pace with this age of big business individual groups have had to work together to realize their demands. Farming is no different from any other business today—it is big business. Buyers of farm produce are fewer in number but much stronger. The trend is toward large volume purchase of quality merchandise. Therefore, I believe that to keep up with the times and to keep farming in the hands of farmers, they must work together in the cooperative effort. The individual farmer is such a small part of the overall picture he can't gain much by himself.

The best way for farmers to improve their income and to secure the type of farm programs they want is to join and support their local farm organizations and cooperatives.

Farmers started forming cooperatives in the early 1800's. Labor didn't organize until the late 1800's. However, today labor unions have merged into powerful groups, with millions of members. Farmer cooperatives grew to a certain size and stopped, while labor and industry marched right on by, and grew and grew. Thus it seems to me it is not only a problem of farmer participation in cooperatives, it is a matter of merger into larger cooperatives.

Are large cooperatives to be "frowned upon"? Certain individuals regard big business as evil. Certainly the position of General Motors, duPont and even foremost dairies came about largely through mergers. Some cooperatives have merged, but not to the extent it has occurred in labor or industry. Mergers cut procurement cost, increase efficiency and lower distribution costs. To those who are pessimistic about cooperatives growing larger, I offer this statement made by the editor of the Farm Journal. "How visionary is a Carpenter's Union that bargains for 850,000 carpenters in 3,000 locals throughout an entire nation?"

As a minority group, farmers must become more aware that legislation for their own benefit must come through group action. Most farmers have a full time job with their own business, and thus the job of organizing and working for legislation may have to be delegated to individuals who understand and will work to satisfy the farmer's needs. The Farm Bureau and the Grange can secure needed legislation, if they receive sufficient funds to afford the type of individual who will look after their interests. Through such local groups at the Kitchen Conference and the local Grange, farmers can make their needs known. I also believe that the Farm Bureau and the Grange should work together, so that they can recommend farm programs that do not conflict.

As I look over our farm situation today, I believe that our major weakness is in the field of marketing. Yes, we have marketing co-ops, and in many areas they are providing outstanding service, such as those offered by the Empire Livestock Co-op and the New York State Canning Crop Growers Co-op. This doesn't alter the fact that there is room for improvement.

What has happened in Madison County? Bean growers, especially the smaller ones, have been faced with increased marketing costs and lower returns. In my own case, our farm partnership was recently faced with signing a sweet corn contract with a canning factory to grow a certain variety of corn. According to all the data which we have been able to collect, this particular variety yields one ton less per acre than the variety we grew last year, yet the price per ton would be the same. The grower has no choice. If you don't sign the contract at the processor's price and terms, he can go elsewhere and get another grower to sign.

I would like to see a vegetable crop co-op organized, by the best men in the field. Then the co-op could bargain with the canning factory. I would even go further, to the extent that money, time and the necessary personnel could be obtained. Organize a co-op that would actually process and distribute the farmer's products, and thus eliminate the middleman. Quality would be the determining factor in setting prices for a farmer's produce. Establish a brand name and build up an advertising program. The supply of produce for various markets could be controlled, and the small farmer would be on an equal basis with the larger grower. It would take capital, and it would mean securing the highest type of management personnel.

What about milk marketing? Have you ever read Order Number 27? I profess that I couldn't even begin to understand it. If I belong to a milk cooperative, I know that there are individuals employed by the co-op whose business it is to understand the implications of such an order. My question is, "Why can't by-gones be by-gones?" Instead of bickering with one another and patting ones-self on the back when its own pet program is approved, our milk cooperatives could make better use of their time. They should get together, forget their past grievances, and come solid behind a program. How long have we got to wait for an advertising program for milk?

Through collective bargaining, commodity by commodity, co-operatives could control marketing. It is a matter of dealing as powerful groups, not as individuals. The individual farmer is going to have to surrender to the will of the group, if he wants farmers to control farming.

Shots of Convention Activities

Perhaps now the question is not whether farmers should cooperate, but will they cooperate. No one is stopping farmers from organizing but themselves. Farmers, I think, have always been independent in character and have wanted to be alone in their business. Lately, we have been hearing a lot about integration, and the role certain farmers have begun to play as hired men. Integration in farming is here. It has taken over the broiler industry, and is making rapid strides in the pork business. Integration in itself offers certain economic advantages, and we will probably see more of it. If a co-op buys, processes and markets a farm product, it is integration. As I look at it, it is not a question of integration, but who is to be the integrator.

There will always be farmers who will lean over the neighbor's fence and complain, but who will never attend a meeting of the local co-op. Among my fellow students, there is a tendency to go along with their father's opinion. If the father has no use for a farm organization, it is carried over to the son. However, the Future Farmers of America has as one of its purposes, "Cooperation." Cooperation is demonstrated in our classes, and in carrying out the FFA program of work. Continuous contacts are made with farm organizations, and with boys who make use of cooperatives. Without the cooperation of its members, the FFA is nothing more than a name.

Education about cooperatives and farm organizations is a must if we are to work together toward greater cooperation. We who are in school now realize the need for cooperation, perhaps more than the older generation. I think our minds are more open, and we are impressed with the need for group action.

Will all farmers cooperate for their own good? No, I don't think we can expect this for some years to come. This doesn't mean we should approach the matter of cooperation with a negative attitude. I expect to see more interest and participation. I look for larger cooperatives through the merger of smaller ones. Farm cooperatives demonstrate the American ideals of democracy and equality. They made their greatest strides when conditions were tough. We need vigorous, active leadership and an active membership. The need for cooperation is here, and I believe farmers will solve their problems in the cooperative effort.

The fine contribution which the FFA Courtesy Corps made toward the success of the 1958 National FFA Convention is worthy of high praise from FFA members, advisors, residents of Kansas City and others.

This organization of hard-working FFA members, advisors and teacher trainers has fulfilled a real need at our convention. Their duties and responsibilities are varied but definitely they have helped FFA members become better acquainted with the convention and the session programs, aided our members to become familiar with Kansas City and gave advice and counsel when the need arose. We are proud of the complimentary remarks made about this group.

The Ushers did an excellent job in making the convention more enjoyable and meaningful to those in attendance. The spirit of cooperation shown by these boys in helping with session arrangements, running errands and extending the hand of "welcome" to Future Farmers and guests is worthy of high praise. We hope this group will continue to grow and become a very important part of every national convention.

Recognition is given to all FFA members in attendance for their fine cooperation with the above two groups, and also for the manner in which they conducted themselves according to the FFA Code of Ethics. Let us be diligent in our efforts for continued improvement so we can be proud to say "The Future Farmer is Always a Gentleman."
